-Holly Golightly, Breakfast at Tiffany’s

You've opened the bar, and your first customer looks like he's had a heavy night.
You know the signs—
the pasty skin, the red eyes,
and so on.

You know, we hope, what he needs. He does not need anything namby-pamby.
He needs the full strength,
78° proof pick-me-up
that really works.

FERNET- BRANCA

N.B. Serve it neat, with vermouth, with champagne, with water, with water and sugar, with coffee, with tea . . . but serve it!

“You may know that Campari is a cryptically bitter drink that happens to be the perfect aperitif. You may know it’s gloriously pink. You may know that the best way to drink it is with chunks of ice and a big shoosh of soda from the syphon. You may know that Campari is made with herbs from four continents macerated in pure grape spirit in oaken vats. But you don’t know what ‘macerated’ means.”
